

Smart dresser

NATIONAL LIBRARY OF JAMAICA

Edward Seaga has a keen eye for fashion

Edward Seaga is our celebrity guest model for the month of May. Not just because he celebrates a birthday during this month but, in addition to cutting a sophisticated and well executed dash whenever in the public eye, the gentleman is knowledgeable on fashion, has a keen eye, and planned at one stage to construct a veritable fashion enclave on the Percy Junior lands. The great house would have been the venue for major fashion shows.

There is no reason why with all the trendy world recognised designers of clothes, hats and accessories this dream cannot become a reality.

Our model was quite at ease in front of our critical fashion team and had a wonderful wardrobe prepared. It was his university days at Harvard that gave him his good dress sense and taught him what to wear, how to wear it and when.

Seaga loves the British tweeds and has quite a few well constructed blazers that are used mostly for overseas travel. His favourite colours are brown, light blue and, of course, green. But he is quick to point out just how stately black is. On completion of the shoot in tuxedo in his library, we too came to that conclusion.

Favourite designer: Armani.

Cologne: Boucheron

Shoes: Bruno Magli and Bally.

Shirts: Armorial

Ties: Hermes.

Preferred drink: A perfectly chilled martini. Is also a lover of wines and has a great wine cellar.

Meal: A good plate of meatballs made with fresh tomatoes by Timothy, his cook.

