

Olympic gold medalist and former world record holder Herb McKenley was an unhappy man yesterday. Burglars invaded his home on Tuesday afternoon and took off with his medals among other things.

McKenley, who won a gold medal in Helsinki after a brilliant third-leg run in the 4x400 metres relay and also silver medals in the 100 and 400 metres, is keeping his fingers crossed that his cherished medals will be returned to him.

"After all, they are of no use to anybody but me."

Daily News sports really hope that the burglar or burglars have a heart and return the medals.
