

LADY BUSTAMANTE: Woman Trade Fair & Exhibition Patron

B/N - Bustamante Lady

BEST WISHES FOR SUCCESS

I AM DELIGHTED to serve yet another year as Patron for the Woman Trade Fair and Exhibition — Woman 89.

Highest commendation and congratulations must be extended to Woman Incorporated for the sterling quality of service extended to ensuring the continued success of such a fund-raising venture each year — this year the sixth in a series.

Your Theme, "Together We Can" is a most fitting one as it reinforces the fact that for us to achieve and strengthen the fabric of the society UNITY must be the critical factor, the binding ingredient with all the necessary elements for a nations' success.

The beneficiaries of the service provided by your organization attest to the tremendous impact that you have on the society.

Do accept my very best wishes for yet another successful venture and my heartiest congratulations.

In closing, I wish to share with you a quotation from a letter to the Editor of the Gleaner dated December 9, 1936, in which the late Sir Alexander Bustamante wrote about a specific group of women, "The Needleworkers", but which could be applicable today. He stated, "Now you are duty bound to protect your own people... and have no right to allow our women to go to destruction and to desolation."

You have heeded thus, and have in fact established the structures to save our women from destruction and desolation. May God reward your efforts, and every good wish.

Hon. Lady Bustamante
